

The Department of Finance is committed to contributing to the knowledge in the field of finance through research and education. Theory and application are melded to provide an environment in which new ideas are developed to meet the challenges and transformations rising in an ever-changing world of financial innovations.